

Railways look for ways to fill gaps

By Jagruti Verma

There are several suburban stations like Parel, Masjid, Mulund, Mumbai Central and Dadar with gaps in the covers over platforms. This becomes a major issue for commuters during heavy rains as well as afternoons when the sun is at its peak. Yet, there isn't much the railway authorities can do to overcome the issue at the moment because of structural constraints. However, railway engineers are looking for canopy options to solve the issue, said a senior railway official.

There are two kinds of technical difficulties the railway engineers are trying to overcome to be able to solve the issue. One of them is near foot over-bridges and the other at the narrow ends of the platforms. "In case of the gap between the shed of a foot-over bridge and cover over platforms, there is no space to erect the pole to support the patch of shed required at the spot," said a railway official, adding that given the current design methodology, the pole would probably fall on the stairs of the foot-over bridge.

The other issue is of narrow platforms, as can be seen at Dadar and Mumbai Central stations, especially the spots where the first ladies' coach halts from the Churchgate side. In such cases, the issue is the schedule of dimensions, where certain parameters have to be followed during construction for safety purposes. These rules don't allow construction of a supporting pole in the space near such narrow platforms for they are not practical to be executed. Such cases and related complaints have prompted the railway officials to look for solutions. However, there is no timeline as the plan is still in brainstorming stage and it will be a while before something materialises.

Street food vendors get lessons in hygiene

Under the Food Safety Act, violators are liable to pay fines up to Rs 1 lakh

By Suresh Golani

In an initiative aimed at encouraging clean surroundings and personal hygiene, the Thane unit of the State's Food and Drug Administration (FDA) in association with Nestle India Limited imparted lessons to street vendors at a mobile workshop near the Maxus Mall in Bhayandar (west) on Wednesday.

Aptly named as 'Serve Safe Food', the project is a part of Nestle's corporate social responsibility (CSR) being undertaken across the state. In the first phase around 50-odd street vendors from the twin-city were trained on critical and important subjects including health, hygiene, food handling, waste disposal and entrepreneurship. An air-conditioned mobile van equipped with audio-video accessories provided on-the-spot training to vendors operating in the area.

Alongside these obvious cleanliness tips, the campaign also informed vendors about their rights and licensing needs. "To sensitise food vendors on importance of hygiene, several such mobile training sessions will be held in the region in the coming days," said Food Safety Officer- Manek Jadhav who also tagged a warning stating that, "we will soon launch a drive to enforce quality control of eatables and take strict action against those who fail to comply with the mandated guidelines".

Apart from issuing a certificate of participation at the end of their training, the street vendors were also given a food safety kit, which included an apron, head cap, gloves, towel and hand wash. As per provisions under the Food Safety Act, food vendors are mandated to follow minimum standards of food safety, violators are liable to monetary fines up to Rs 1 lakh.

MHADA to offer over 1,000 houses, mainly to low income group

By Raju Vernekar

Mumbai Board of Maharashtra Housing and Area Development Authority (MHADA) is likely to come out with new advertisement offering 1,008 houses, including nearly 800 houses for economically weaker sections and middle income group (MIG).

The advertisement will be released within a week and the registration process is expected to begin early next month. The lottery draw will be conducted before Diwali, at MHADA headquarters in Bandra, instead of the usual venue — Rangsharda Auditorium, official sources said.

Since in earlier draws, less number of houses were offered to economically weaker section (EWS) a major chunk was offered to MIG and LIG. As such this time a sizable number of houses have been kept reserved for EWS and Low Income Group (LIG), MHADA sources said.

The tentative figures are: EWS-PMGP Colony, Mankhurd-114, Gavanpada, Mulund-269, Antop Hill, Wadala-278, Pratiksha Nagar, Sion-86, Siddharth Nagar, Goregon-24, Tagore Nagar and Vikhroli-7. MIG-Kannamwar Nagar, Vikhroli-28 and Mahavir Nagar, Kandivali-172. Only two flats at Mahavir Nagar, Kandivali will be reserved for the Higher Income Group.

The applicants will be required to pay the cost of the application and deposit money along with their applications: EWS Rs 15,336 per application, Low Income Group Rs 25,336, Middle Income Group Rs 50,336, and Higher Income Group-Rs 75,336 per application.

This includes the non-refundable amount of Rs 336 towards the cost of the application. The monthly income for EWS should be Rs 25,000, LIG Rs 25,000 to Rs 50,000, MIG Rs 50,000 to Rs 75,000 and HIG Rs 75,001 and above.

In the meanwhile, some of the winners of November 2017 lottery are yet to receive possession in absence of Occupation Certificate from the BMC. Due to pending work of laying water pipeline, especially at Unnat Nagar, Goregaon, the BMC has not granted the OC.
